

CATTINI & FIGLIO Srl

Code of Ethics

Version 3 Issued on 31 March 2017 and adopted by Board of Directors resolution on 31 March 2017.

Index

General Rules	3
1. INTRODUCTION	3
1.1. GENERAL PRINCIPLES	3
1.2. Unethical behaviour	7
Rules of Behaviour	7
2. Rules of behaviour in relations with stakeholders.	7
2.1. Employees	7
2.2. Suppliers	9
2.3. Customers	9
2.4. Public Administration	10
2.5. Political Organisations and Trade Unions	10
2.6. Community and the environment	10
2.7. Company information and information provided to third parties	11
2.8. Competition	11
2.9 Gifts and Giveaways	11

2.10 Donations and Sponsorships	11
Control and Implementation Procedures	12
3. Methods of implementation	12
3.1. Internal affairs and its duties	12
3.2. Communication and distribution of the Code of Ethics	13
3.3. Ethical Training	13
3.4. Reporting violations of the Code of Ethics	13
Sanctions	13
4.1. Sanctioning System	13
Final and Temporary Dispositions	14
5.1. Entry into force	14
5.2. Monitoring and Reviewing the Code of Ethics	14

Part I

General Rules

1. INTRODUCTION

This Code of Ethics is an integral part of the Organisation and Management Model adopted by Cattini & Figlio in accordance with Italian Legislative Decree No. 231 of 8 June 2001. It contains the rules of behaviour for recipients, who must be inspired by criteria of correctness, collaboration, loyalty, transparency and mutual respect, avoiding any conduct that could result in the type of administrative crimes and illegal acts referred to in Italian Legislative Decree 231/2001 as amended.

1.a) RECIPIENTS

This Code of Ethics, along with the principles and contents of the same, is intended for:

- a) corporate bodies and their members;
- b) executives and managers, employees, hired personnel (also temporary), without exception;
- c) consultants, collaborators, agents, suppliers, business partners and all those who, to whatever degree, act in name and on behalf of Cattini & Figlio.

The Code of Ethics establishes the values that constitute the social ethics and principle guidelines, as well as the fundamental directives to be observed by all the recipients to which the Code applies in social activities and behaviour, within the scope of their respective competence and in relation to the position held in the company organisation.

The Code of Ethics inspires all company activities and constitutes, along with the mission, vision and strategic goals, the primary point of reference for the policies, procedures and rules adopted by Cattini & Figlio.

Recipients of this Code are obliged to learn the contents and observe the rules in the ways indicated below.

First and foremost, the Code must be known and therefore Cattini & Figlio undertakes to distribute the Code of Ethics, and any periodic revisions of the same, and encourage its full application.

Regardless of the penalties provided for by the law and regulations in force, the non-observance or violation of the provisions of this document by recipients will be considered breach of the ethical - behavioural principles adopted by Cattini & Figlio, of the duties of correctness towards the company, and violation of the relevant contractual clauses, where applicable. Therefore, said non-observance and/or violations may be punished by suitable penalties, as provided for below, and in the relevant contractual clauses.

1.1. GENERAL PRINCIPLES

As well as the general principles of legality, integrity and transparency, the ethical values on which the conduct of the company is based, are:

Respect, protection and growth of people: our corporate mission is compatible with satisfying people's needs; protecting the people's health and safety is part of the company's daily work, eager to develop the competence and aptitude of all.

Cattini & Figlio acknowledges the central role and importance of people, the contribution that each individual can bring, as essential elements of corporate growth. Therefore, Cattini & Figlio is committed to guaranteeing a work environment that offers protection for every single person without racial, sexual, religious or political discrimination of any kind, direct or indirect. These principles mean we refuse to enter into agreements or confer appointments to subjects who violate said principles, with particular reference to the protection of the primary rights for every worker.

Correctness, transparency, observance of the law and regulations in force: the promotion and constant respect of the company's correct behaviour with the entire community and the external environment, which in some ways has high expectations for the Company, in accordance with all the values of this code, the law and company procedure; all the recipients of this Code of Ethics must behave in a correct and transparent way when doing their job, undertaking to observe National and Regional Legislation, regulations and all the rules of the Law regulating Company activities and actions.

Subjects in the list of recipients working for the company Cattini & Figlio (internal recipients of this Code of Ethics) must also know and observe the applicable company procedures, in relation to their position and level of responsibility.

The subjects in question must also remain constantly up-to-date on internal company regulations using the information instruments put at their disposal by the company (regulations, circulars, policies, behavioural procedures), to do their jobs correctly and behave in a way that complies with company directives for the organisation of work.

The managers of each organisational structure must therefore make sure all the recipients they are responsible for receive training in accordance with Italian Legislative Decree 231/2001, and are informed on the channels of communications through which they can report and violations of the principles and procedures of this Code of Ethics and the Organisation and Management Model adopted by the company.

Equity and impartiality: all the corporate decisions are inspired by the desire to avoid discrimination of any kind. All the recipients of this Code of Ethics must behave in line with the principles of good faith, honesty, moral integrity, transparency, correctness and impartiality. Furthermore, all recipients must operate in a fair and impartial way, avoiding effective or even partial conflicts of interest.

Hypothetical conflicts of interest, as well as those provided for by law, are understood to include also those in which a subject acts out of an interest other than in the company's interest. Such potential or true conflicts of interest must be managed also taking into account what specified by the company's internal procedures.

The recipients of this Code of Ethics who find themselves forced to act in a situation of even a potential conflict of interest, must strictly observe the laws that regulate said situations and, in general, the principle of transparency, communicating said conflict in advance to the subjects of reference in the company to avoid prejudicial consequences in the case of a conflict of interest.

Trust, Loyalty and Honesty: inspiring the company's relations; going beyond formalized commitments and obligations, our relations are based on a firm belief in the good faith of the parties concerned; Our relations are all aimed at obtaining a mutual advantage in a common, transparent way.

Proactive: the personal initiative and the collaboration of every single person in reaching the company goals is encouraged by the company as a true source of competitive advantage.

Respect and protection of the environment: in all company activities we take every possible step to minimize environmental impact.

For Cattini & Figlio, environmental protection is a prerequisite in the choice of technology, projects and company strategy. We assess the environmental impact of every new process, product or service offered.

Furthermore, as the environment is an inviolable asset for mankind, for which we are all responsible, the company actively contributes to environmental protection and promotion.

These are the values that inspire the conduct of Cattini & Figlio and all the recipients of this Code of Ethics, and these same values become explicit requisites for the major partners (both internal and external) of the company, our employees and everyone who collaborates with the Company.

The Company and all the recipients of this Code must observe proper conduct, and avoid any behaviour prohibited by environmental protection law, with particular reference to Italian Legislative Decree No. 152/2006.

The protection of the environment has also been stressed through the recognition of the so-called “environmental offences” in the Management organisational model, as required by Italian Legislative Decree 231/2001 as amended. Furthermore, the Company’s Environmental Management System complies with the requirements of UNI EN-ISO 14001/2015.

Protection of health and safety at work: The Company acknowledges that the health and safety of workers is a primary objective, to be pursued in accordance with the general principles of articles 4, 32 and 35 of the Italian Constitution.

The Company guarantees that safety regulations are met and ensures that all safety related personnel, regardless if company’s staff or external consultants, are appointed only on the basis of suitable, proven competence and experience in this matter.

For this purpose, Cattini & Figlio's activities are inspired by the principles of prevention, information, training and maintaining suitable safety standards.

All the recipients of this Code of Ethics must observe the rules of behaviour provided for by law and adopted by the company in its internal procedures, for the protection of health and safety at work.

The importance of health and safety has also been stressed through the recognition of health/safety crimes specified in art. 25 septies of Italian Legislative Decree 231/2001” in the Management organisational model, as required by the same Legislative Decree as amended.

Accuracy in the management of financial flows, company operations and accounts:

The Company guarantees full respect of the principles of transparency and truthfulness. To this purpose, we strive to make every operation and activity legitimate, authorized, documented and verifiable, in accordance with the principle of traceability and company procedures. This means not only the respect of principles and values, but also adopting operating methods that contemplate the concrete verification of active operations.

The Company is committed to respecting the law and the principles of correctness in all financial matters, and good administration practice, respecting all accounting and financial procedures to prevent irregularities, illegitimate acts and violations of the Law.

Therefore it goes against the principles of this code to indicate in accounts and other corporate communications, false information on acts or omit information, in a way that could induce the recipients of the same to make wrong decisions and to obtain an unfair advantage for oneself or others.

The importance of truthfulness in the management of financial flows, company operations and accounts has also been stressed through the recognition of the specific crimes of this type provided for by Italian Legislative Decree 231/2001 into the Management organisational model.

Protection of privacy and confidentiality: The Company protects the privacy of the data and information that employees and collaborators may come into contact with, taking all necessary steps to protect the privacy of the information processed and prevent any unauthorized access or use for purposes other than that allowed for by the law on data processing.

All sensitive information and personal data is processed and managed in accordance with the provisions of Italian Legislative Decree 196/2003 and subsequent amendments.

The recipients of this Code of Ethics must observe the provisions of the law on privacy. Company recipients must also guarantee that the information required during work activities is used only for the same activities, in full observance of company procedures.

Collaboration with the Judicial Authorities: The Company believes that full and transparent collaboration with the Judicial Offices and Institutions for the aims and purposes of the same to be essential and unavoidable.

Correctness in relations with customers and suppliers: The Company's relations with customers and suppliers are based on the principles of correctness, honesty and transparency, providing commercial information so customers and suppliers can enter agreements and business relationships with full knowledge of the same. Relations with suppliers are regulated by contractual regulations to guarantee certitude in business relations and competence, the requirements and respect of current legislation.

Distribution of the code of ethics: In relation to the external subjects recipient of this Code, the Company will obtain signed declarations that the same have read, adhere to and respect the principles of this Code of Ethics, also by signing contracts with specific clauses declaring the undersigned will observe the provisions of the Code of Ethics and Organisation Model.

Employee's obligations: Every Company employee must read the rules in this Code or referred to in the same, as well as the laws of reference governing the activities performed as part of their job and that constitute an integral part of each person's work.

Anyone who knows of presumed illicit conduct must report the same to their superiors, or Internal Affairs and the Supervisory Body.

Employees must also:

- not behave in a way which goes against such provisions and regulations;
- ask their superiors, or the Supervisory Body for any explanations required on the method of application of the Code and the regulations of reference;
- collaborate with the Company in the case of investigations held to verify and possibly impose sanctions on violations.

The managers and officers must also:

- make sure the Code is observed by all the subjects they are directly or indirectly responsible for;
- with their own behaviour, set an example for their employees;
- send Internal Affairs and the Supervisory Body any reports or requests from their employees in a timely manner.

1.2. Unethical behaviour

On the basis of the above values, the company will encourage behaviour that aims to avoid corporate or personal conflict of interest.

The conviction that acting in the interest of or for the benefit of the Company can in no way justify behaviour that goes against the values of this Code, or laws, regulations or internal procedures.

Furthermore, the behaviour of any single person or organisation in an attempt to gain the benefit of the collaboration of others, exploiting positions of power are unethical, and favour a hostile attitude against the company.

Cattini & Figlio refuses to enter into relations with anyone who behaves unethically and will terminate any existing relations with anyone who behaves in this way.

Part II

Rules of Behaviour

2. Rules of behaviour in relations with stakeholders.

The main categories of stakeholders with which the company holds relations are listed below.

The rules of behaviour are indicated for each category in accordance with the values the company has decided to adopt.

2.1. Employees

The pursuit of behaviour aimed at consolidating respect, protection, the growth and development of employees represent decisive and essential values for the goals of Cattini & Figlio.

Cattini & Figlio is coherently committed to developing the aptitude and potential of each and every employee, so the capacities and legitimate ambitions of each individual are fulfilled as company goals are reached.

All structures of the company, and in particular the offices responsible for managing human resources, must be inspired by this same purpose.

Cattini & Figlio is committed to offering equal work opportunities to all employees on the basis of their professional qualifications and performance capacity, without any form of discrimination. As a consequence:

- Cattini & Figlio, through the competent offices, selects, hires, pays and manages its employees on the basis of criteria of merit and competence, without any form of political, labour, religious, racial, linguistic or sexual discrimination, in accordance with all laws, labour contracts, regulations and directives in force;
- Cattini & Figlio, through the competent offices, is committed to creating a suitable work environment from the point of view of the health and safety of its employees. The managers of the various structures report any circumstances and situations that may be a hazard for safety in the workplace, to the relevant office;
- Cattini & Figlio promotes an organisation that aims to create incentives and encourage the proactive behaviour of individuals and teams;
- Cattini & Figlio adopts suitable formalized procedures for the protection of the privacy of collaborators and the processing and storage of data acquired;
- the unit managers are committed to creating a work environment free of any kind of prejudice or intimidation, where colleagues are treated with respect in accordance with company values, censuring illicit conditioning or unjust difficulties;
- every employee must help create an atmosphere where all colleagues feel at home and are encouraged to reach their own goals. Employees must also observe the following rules;
- every situation or activity that may lead to a conflict of interest with the company or interfere with the impartial decision-making capacity in the company's best interests must be avoided; the information acquired while performing the activities assigned must be kept strictly confidential and be suitably protected and cannot be used, communicated or disclosed, either inside or outside the company, except in compliance with the laws in force and company procedures;
- each individual employee must respect and protect company property and prevent the fraudulent or improper use of the same. The use of company property by employees must be functional and solely for the purpose of performing company activities or for activities authorized by the relevant internal office;
- employees must prevent their personal financial situation having negative repercussions on the correct performance of their work;
- personnel cannot request or accept, on their own behalf or on behalf of others, recommendations, favours, gifts or other benefits from subjects they come into contact with, refusing benefits of any kind which may influence or may appear to influence their independent and impartial judgement or which may even constitute a serious breach of the law. If an employee receives gifts or hospitality of a symbolic nature (merely by way of example, "non-symbolic" is considered a gift worth significantly more than 100 Euro), they must inform their superiors or Internal Affairs and the Supervisory Body to assess whether it is best to return the gift or any other appropriate measures;
- every employee is responsible for their own competence and professional conduct, developing the same thanks to experience and the collaboration of colleagues; with constructive and proactive behaviour, encouraging the professional growth of their collaborators;
- the activity of each employee and operating structure, manager and commercial network, must be inspired by the greatest collaboration to optimize Customer satisfaction;

- the management in particular, must - in accordance with the principles of sound and prudent management - propose and implement programmes for the development of company patrimonial values, maximize the level of Customer satisfaction and protect the long-term interests of all employees;
- the decisions taken by each person will be based on principles of sound and prudent management, through the shrewd assessment of potential risks and fully aware that the decisions taken by each individual help obtain positive results for the entire company;
- employees must report any instructions received which conflict with the laws in force, work contracts, internal regulations or this Code to their Unit Manager. The Unit Manager will assess the report and send the same to their superior, Internal Affairs and the Supervisory Body.

2.2. Suppliers

Purchasing processes strive to obtain the best possible conditions for Cattini & Figlio, and are inspired by the impartial treatment of all suppliers, based on behaviour which must be that of reciprocal loyalty, transparency and collaboration.

A contract must be drawn up with a Supplier based on open and clear relations, considering transparency as an advantage in business relations, avoiding any risk of dependency.

In any case, if a supplier behaves in a way which conflicts with the general principles of this Code, Cattini & Figlio has the right to take suitable measures to stop or interrupt any further collaboration. The company uses specific contractual clauses to make said principles effective.

The management of contracts with suppliers is regulated, from the selection of suppliers to the signing and management of the contract, by precise procedures adopted as part of the management system in accordance with Italian Legislative Decree 231/2001, with which all the recipients of this Code of Ethics must comply.

2.3. Customers

Cattini & Figlio is constantly aware of the importance of protecting the quality of its Customer relations and the continuous improvement of the same, as these are prerequisite conditions in the Customer satisfaction process and for the creation and distribution of value.

Cattini & Figlio believes it to be essential for Customer relations to be inspired by:

- full transparency and correctness;
- observance of the law;
- independence against any form of internal or external conditioning.

Professional competence, availability and courtesy are the principle guidelines the recipients of the Code must follow in Customer relations.

Behaviour must be inspired by the respect of the confidentiality of any information acquired during activities, and the laws in force on privacy.

Furthermore, when entering into business relations with new Customers and in existing relations, in consideration of available information, it is important to avoid:

- relations with subjects involved in illegal activities, in particular related to traffic in arms and drugs, money laundering and terrorism, illegal labour, or in any case with people who do not meet the required level of seriousness and reliability in business;
- - financing activities that produce or trade pollutants for the environment or public health;
- financial relations with economic activities which, also indirectly, represent an obstacle to human development and contribute to the violation of fundamental human rights (for example, exploiting child labour).
- behaving in a deceitful way which may, also potentially, lead customers to make an erroneous technical - economic evaluation of the products offered or in any case use evasive tactics with the intention of forcing a decision out of the customer or influencing their behaviour.

2.4. Public Administration

Only authorized company executives can enter into agreements with the Public Administration, and must perform their duties with integrity, independently and correctly.

It is forbidden to directly or indirectly offer Public Officials, or employees of the Public Administration or public institutions in general, payments or property to promote or favour the interests of an individual or the Company.

Anyone who receives a request or proposal for benefits from Public Officials must immediately report this to their superior or the Supervisory Body.

No employee may offer or accept any object, service or performance to obtain favours.

In any case, all the recipients of this Code of Ethics must observe company procedures concerning relations with Public Authorities, as provided for by the Management organisational model, in accordance with Italian Legislative Decree 231/2001 as amended.

2.5. Political Organisations and Trade Unions

Cattini & Figlio does not pay contributions, give benefits or other advantages to Italian or foreign political parties or trade unions, or the representatives or candidates of the same.

2.6. Community and the environment

Cattini & Figlio approves of and offers support to social, cultural and educational initiatives aimed at promoting personal development and improving living conditions.

Cattini & Figlio believes in sustainable growth in the common interest of the community. Investment choices will therefore be made in accordance with respect for the environment and public health.

The Company will adopt, when sustainable and in accordance with the company mission, eco-compatible technologies and organisational solutions to reduce the environmental impact of its activities and contribute to the protection and enhancement of the environment.

2.7. Company information and information provided to third parties

External company communications must be truthful, correct, clear, transparent, unambiguous or non-exploitable, must be kept coherent, uniform and accurate, conform to company policies and programmes.

Only the Management or persons authorized by the same may have relations with the press and other mass communications mediums.

2.8. Competition

Cattini & Figlio sees competition as a stimulus for the constant improvement of the quality of the products and services we offer our Customers, and our behaviour in business is inspired by the principles of loyalty and fairness.

2.9 Gifts and Giveaways

Every gift for business partners or public authorities must be documented by the head of the business unit and authorized by the Management.

No gifts or giveaways of a significant economic value are allowed, in other words merely by way of example, worth more than 100,00 (one hundred) euros.

Gifts will be chosen to avoid any possible misunderstanding or incomprehension, making sure the recipient feels in no way obliged to enter business relations and/or guarantee Cattini & Figlio special conditions just for having accepted the gift.

In relations with agents or managers of companies and public bodies particular care must be taken to avoid any possible consequence or misunderstanding. The policies of the companies and/or bodies receiving said gifts must be followed to the letter.

Cattini & Figlio managers and employees who receive gifts or benefits that are not deemed acceptable by the case in point must, in accordance with the set procedures, inform the Supervisory Board so the Board can evaluate the appropriateness of the same and inform the sender of Cattini & Figlio's policy on the question.

2.10 Donations and Sponsorships

Cattini & Figlio may accept requests for contributions but only from non-profit bodies and associations with regular articles of association and deeds of constitution, of a high social, cultural value or benefit and which, in any case, help a significant number of people.

Sponsorships may be awarded for social, environmental, sporting, artistic and entertainment themes. These activities will only be for events that offer a guaranteed quality or when Cattini & Figlio can collaborate in the planning of the same, to guarantee the originality and effectiveness of the project.

Donations and sponsorships must be approved by the Management, and be made on the basis of the specific procedure adopted by the company to manage its financial resources, as provided for by the Management organisational model, in accordance with Italian Legislative Decree 231/2001 as amended.

Part III

Control and Implementation Procedures

3. Methods of implementation

To implement the Code of Ethics, company organs and offices will be set up and the practices, initiatives and behaviour described below will be put into effect.

The Board of Directors sets up Internal Affairs (IA) and appoints Luigi Werner coordinator.

IA assists and collaborates with the Supervisory Body to control and supervise the implementation of the Code of Ethics and must refer any information worthy of merit for the purpose herein to the latter.

Internal Affairs, like the Supervisory Body, will have the following characteristics:

- independent and autonomous from the top management of the Company, to guarantee impartiality and the possibility of operating also when required to supervise the application of the Code of Ethics by the top management;
- professional competence, to guarantee the capacity to take action in a context that requires marked evaluation, risk management and procedure analysis skills.
- continuity of action, aimed at guaranteeing the constant and effective supervision and revision of the Code of Ethics.

3.1. Internal affairs and its duties

Internal Affairs will control the full observance and correct interpretation of the rules of this Code; IA will also perform the duties mentioned below.

Internal Affairs:

- collaborates with and assists the Supervisory Body in the performance of its supervision duties, continuously implementing and updating the Code of Ethics;
- defines the initiatives aimed at promoting awareness of the Code of Ethics clarifying the meaning and application of the same by giving opinions;
- coordinates drawing up the company rules and procedures that implement the indications in the Code of Ethics;
- promotes the periodic revision of the Code of Ethics and the mechanisms for the implementation of the same;
- receives and analyses reports on violations of the Code of Ethics, if necessary obtaining more in-depth information and carrying out inspections;
- periodically refers to the Board of Directors and Board of Auditors on the activities performed and any problems concerning the implementation of the Code of Ethics;
- verifies the application and observance of the Code of Ethics through supervision;
- guarantees the development of ethical communication and training;

3.2. Communication and distribution of the Code of Ethics

A copy of the Code must be given to each new director or manager, auditor, employee or external collaborator on appointment or hiring the same or at the start of the collaboration. Furthermore the Company will distribute the Code and promote awareness of the same with personnel in service, directors and managers, standing auditors, and subjects collaborating with the Company.

3.3. Ethical Training

Cattini & Figlio will perform suitable training activities and/or promote awareness on the values, principles of behaviour and method of implementation for the reviews required by the Code of Ethics.

3.4. Reporting violations of the Code of Ethics

All the recipients of this Code of Ethics must report every violation or suspected violation of the Code of Ethics to Internal Affairs who will analyse the report, verify the violation and notify the Supervisory Body. Reports may also be made directly to the Supervisory Body. The report should always be made directly to the Supervisory Body when the violation or suspected violation concerns the top management.

Part IV

Sanctions

4.1. Sanctioning System

Violation of the single rules of behaviour in this Code of Ethics by the recipients constitutes disciplinary breach of conduct.

The disciplinary measures that can be taken against said workers are those indicated by labour legislation applicable for violations of the Code of Ethics and do not exclude further legal actions by Cattini & Figlio against offenders.

The applicable sanctions and the relevant sanctioning procedures are those in the Disciplinary Code enclosed with the main part of the Company Management Model, hereto explicitly referred to.

In the case of the non-observance of the rules in the Code of Ethics by members of the corporate bodies, the competent corporate bodies may adopt the most suitable measures in accordance with the law.

Violations of the rules in the Code by employees constitutes a breach of work relations obligations, with all contractual and legal consequences, also with reference to the relevance of the same as a disciplinary breach of conduct.

Violations committed by suppliers and external collaborators will be liable to sanction in accordance with the provisions of the relevant contractual obligations, without prejudice to more serious violation of the law.

Part V

Final and Temporary Dispositions

5.1. Entry into force

This Code comes into effect on 31 March 2017 following approval of the same by the Board of Directors.

5.2. Monitoring and Reviewing the Code of Ethics

The Code is subject to periodic reviews at least every three years; every variation or integration must be approved by the Board of Directors.

The recipients holding a position of power (top management) must set an example by their behaviour in observance of the corporate values, promote and implement this Code of Ethics, and remain vigilant, setting an example for the other recipients of the Code of Ethics, as well as collaborating with Internal Affairs and the Supervisory Body.